A SEASONAL UPDATE FOR OUR VALUED ELECTRICITY & NATURAL GAS CUSTOMERS

Choose Energy Star for Savings

The Energy Star logo was developed by the US Environmental Protection Agency to help consumers identify products that meet or exceed their strict energy efficiency standards. According to the EPA's Energy Star website, here are a few of the ways Energy Star-certified products can help you save:

- Energy Star light bulbs use about 70-90% less energy and last 10-25 times longer than regular incandescent light bulbs
- Energy Star dryers use 20% less energy than regular models
- Energy Star room air conditioners use 10% less energy, and on average, cost less than $75 per year to operate
- Energy Star televisions use on average 27% less energy than conventional models, saving electricity in all usage modes — sleep, idle, and on
- Energy Star computers use 30-65% less energy than other models, depending on usage

Power Protection for Your Valuable Electronics

If your computers, televisions, and other important electronics are still plugged into a wall outlet, we want to remind you that a single power surge or outage could completely ruin these devices! Here's what to consider when choosing the right power protection for these items:

POWER STRIPS — While some power strips may offer surge protection, many just provide multiple outlets, and offer no surge protection at all. Be sure to read the details!

SURGE PROTECTORS — Surge protectors look like a power strip, but also offer protection against power surges and outages. Surge protectors don't last forever, so consider one with a light or alarm that indicates when it needs to be replaced.

ADVANCED POWER STRIPS — Advanced power strips offer you surge protection plus provide the extra benefit of helping you save energy when you are not using your electronics — without having to unplug them! Advanced power strips offer several shut-off options such as timers, motion sensors, and via remote control, so you may want to research in advance to decide which is best for you.
